

PhysTeV 2023 - session 1

Goodbye!

Here we are

A lot of work done!

- ~20 slack channels
- wiki pages are updated, thanks for that!
- stay in touch with the conveners!
  - (if needed) dedicated mailing lists
- maybe also new collaborations were established....

....in one sentence....

a positive edition!

- “Les Houches spirit”: ✓
- Les Houches theme: ✓
https://phystev.cnrs.fr/wiki/2023:lh2023\_music\_theme
- Weather: ✓ (by far my best edition)
- share your pics:
link at <https://phystev.cnrs.fr/wiki/2023:participants:start>

What's next? (1)

Ample freedom to publish work that started, or was boosted, during your stay in LH:

- By the end of the summer: short document summarizing the discussions that took place in Les Houches.
- through the conveners, each “project” can contribute at this stage by preparing a ½- to 1-page long section.
- once ready, such document will be sent to arxiv, and it will “stay alive” for about 18 months.
- It will be updated 2-3 times:

What's next? (2)

- If you work on something that gets published in a journal, please acknowledge PhysTeV in your paper, and let us know. We will update the previous document accordingly (adding a paragraph if necessary).
- For work that is not suited for publication in a journal (which can be the case for some important studies kicked-off here), you can either send it to arxiv acknowledging PhysTeV, or it can be included in the previous document, after the first “general” part.
- WIP: we are currently checking if there are journals with sections where the latter contributions can be considered for publication.

Thanks to

- Dominique, Véronique, Virginie at LAPTh in Annecy
- Elsa, Isabel, Marina, Patrick here at the Ecole
- Fawzi and Jean-Philippe in Annecy

....and...

- Thanks to Cedric and Bjoern for bearing with me, and Philippe for helping us
- Thanks to the conveners for their great (and tough) work
- Thanks to all of you for your enthusiasm!

We hope you had a good time, and to see many interesting results in the coming months!

See you in 2025!!

16 June / 4 July